Frontier Horizon LTD

Terms and Conditions

1. Introduction

These Terms and Conditions outline the agreement between Frontier Horizon LTD (referred to as "the Company") and the end user of the Company's services (referred to as "the Client"). By creating an account and accepting these Terms and Conditions, the Client enters into a legally binding contract with the Company, which governs their use of the services. By accepting these Terms and Conditions, the Client confirms their understanding and agreement to the terms of use. If the Client disagrees with any of the outlined terms, they should refrain from accessing or using the website.

2. Services

The Company offers trading services in financial markets ("Services"), including the opportunity for Clients to participate in options trading with predetermined fixed returns and other financial products that the Company may provide periodically. The Client acknowledges and agrees that the Services are non-delivery based and that they are not entitled to physical delivery of any financial instrument at any time.

3. Account Requirement

In accordance with the terms of this Agreement, the Client may access Services from the Company and conduct transactions through an account created with the Company ("Account"). The Client acknowledges and agrees that:

1. Prior to opening an account, they must read and accept the Company's Risk Policy, Privacy Policy, AML Policy, Withdrawal and Refund Policy, and these Terms and Conditions.
2. Except for the right to execute transactions and withdraw funds from the Account, as per the stated terms, the Client has no other claims on the Account.
3. The Client's usage of the Account and access to Services is contingent upon the Company's approval, which will be based on the KYC Process, among other factors.

4. Opening an Account

The Client irrevocably confirms that they are acting solely for their own benefit and not on behalf of any other individual or entity. If the Client attempts to open multiple accounts in their own name or any other name, or uses the Services through another person's account, the Company reserves the right to immediately close all pending transactions and accounts, retain funds, and prohibit the Client from using the Services in the future. In consideration of the rights granted upon opening an account, the Client represents, warrants, covenants, and agrees that:

1. They are of legal age, mentally competent, and legally capable of assuming responsibility for their own actions.
2. All information provided to the Company, including during the KYC Process, is true, accurate, current, and complete. This information must correspond with the name(s) on any credit/debit card(s) or other payment accounts used for deposits or withdrawals. The Client agrees to promptly inform the Company of any changes to this information.
3. Entering into this Agreement, engaging in all contemplated transactions, and fulfilling their obligations under this Agreement and any Transaction will not violate any applicable laws.
4. The Client fully owns the Account and has not and will not grant a security interest in the Account, except for the security interest granted to the Company.
5. The Client is responsible for all Orders issued through their username and password; any Orders received by the Company will be regarded as being submitted by the Client.

6. The Client has confirmed that their use of the Trading Platforms and Services complies with all applicable laws and regulations.
7. The Client fully understands the methods, rules, and procedures of the Services and Transactions. They possess sufficient experience and knowledge in trading to assess the merits and risks of trading independently, without relying solely on information provided on the website or through any communication from the Company.
8. The Client has implemented and will maintain appropriate security measures for their computer to protect against viruses, unauthorized access, and other harmful materials or data.

Once an account is established in the Client's name, they are responsible for monitoring the Account. If the Client discovers that their Access Codes are lost or being misused by an unauthorized third party, they must immediately notify the Company. The Client also agrees to promptly inform the Company if they experience any issues receiving messages, execution confirmations, Account balance information, or if they receive confirmation for an Order they did not place.

5. Compliance

The Client understands and accepts that upon registration on the Website or at any time thereafter, the Company must conduct a "Know Your Client Process" (KYC Process) and perform anti-money laundering checks (AML Checks). The Company must also comply with the General Data Protection Regulation, where applicable. The Client may be required to submit certain documents, such as an identity card, passport, driver's license, proof of address, and proof of payment method. The Client is encouraged to review the KYC, AML, Privacy Policy, and Risk Policy to understand the Company's policies. By opening an account, the Client agrees to comply with these policies. If the Client fails to provide the required documents or information necessary for the Company's legal obligations, or if such documents are not approved by the Company, the Company may, at its discretion, block the Account from trading or terminate this Agreement. The Company may also withhold any funds in the Account until it has satisfied its legal obligations regarding the required documents. If the Client's documents do not pass the Company's internal compliance checks or violate applicable law, the Company is not obligated to accept such documents as valid and is not required to provide feedback on its findings regarding these documents.

6. Trading Instructions

The Company accepts all orders on a best-effort basis. Therefore, the Company is not liable for failing to execute orders and does not guarantee an order’s priority over those from other counterparties. The Company reserves the right, but is not obligated, to reject any order before or after confirmation, or to cancel any Transaction that violates applicable laws or regulations or is otherwise illegal, as specified in this Agreement. The Company may also refuse, reverse, suspend, freeze, or close any Transactions, quotes, and orders if the Client abuses the Trading Platforms or engages in illegal activities that provide them an unfair advantage. The Company assumes no responsibility for any damages the Client may incur due to transmission errors, technical failures, system issues, or deficiencies caused by third parties or internet service providers. The Client acknowledges that access to electronic systems/trading platforms may be limited or unavailable due to system errors, and the Company reserves the right to suspend access to these systems. The use of unauthorized third-party trading software is strictly forbidden. The Company reserves the right to cancel transactions executed through such unauthorized software or close accounts linked to it. The Company may require the Client to limit the number of open positions they have at any time and may, at its discretion, close one or more Transactions to ensure compliance with position limits. Clients will be notified in advance of any position limits via the Company's website or trading platforms. If a specific risk indicates a predicted decline in value for an underlying asset of a Financial Instrument, the Company reserves the right to withdraw that particular financial instrument from its trading platform. The Company also has the right to set control limits for the Client's orders at its sole discretion, which may include limits on maximum order amounts and sizes.

7. Collateral

To engage in transactions within the Account, the Client must meet the Company's requirement to provide and maintain sufficient funds as collateral to secure any new or existing transactions. The Company has the sole discretion to determine the appropriate collateral amount, both before and after any order is executed. Upon the Company's request or at the Client's discretion, the Client may increase the collateral amount in the account by making additional deposits. The Client must always maintain a margin that meets or exceeds the amount specified by the Company. Margin deposits will be deemed received by the Company upon actual receipt. The Company is not liable for any losses the Client incurs due to the liquidation or set-off of positions. If the collateral is insufficient to cover all liabilities under this Agreement and the Account, the Company may issue a margin call. If the margin call exceeds the cash balance in the Client's deposit account and is less than 100 USD (or its equivalent in another currency), the Company reserves the right to recover the remaining margin amount via a promissory note. The maximum amount of the promissory note will be the difference between the Client's deposit and the margin call, although it will not be enforced if the margin call is equal to or less than the Client's deposit at any time.

8. Deposit Requirement

Upon entering into this Agreement, the Client is required to make an initial deposit into the Account. The specific minimum amount will be determined by the Company and communicated to the Client. This deposit, along with any profits, losses, credits, debits, and commissions, will serve as collateral ("Collateral" or "Margin") for transactions in the Account. The Client pledges this Collateral to the Company as primary security for fulfilling any obligations or debts owed to the Company under this Agreement. This pledge remains effective until the Agreement is terminated and all Client obligations to the Company are fully met. The Client also authorizes the Company to cover or liquidate positions or Collateral as necessary and to set off Collateral amounts in the Account against any funds owed to the Company. The Company reserves the right to close the Account if the Margin falls below the minimum requirement without prior notice to the Client. The Client acknowledges that the minimum margin deposit required to open an Account with the Company and engage in transactions is 200 USD (or its equivalent in another currency). The Company may, at its discretion, adjust the minimum margin requirements for different financial assets and notify the Client of any additional deposits needed to meet the minimum Margin requirement.

9. Orders and Instructions

Clients must place all orders through the Trading Platforms. All transactions are subject to the Trading Conditions and other relevant terms outlined on the Company's Website and current practices. These Trading Conditions, including market hours, minimum quantities, and expiry dates, are specified on the relevant pages of the Website and may be amended by the Company at its discretion. The Client assumes full responsibility for any loss, damage, costs, or expenses arising from their Transactions
